Track Town Pizza Hosts Fundraiser For New Domestic Violence Awareness Project

On Monday, November 5, Track Town Pizza will host the Pluma Project's first fundraiser from 11am-midnight at 1809 Franklin Blvd in Eugene. Patrons who wish to have 50% of their meal costs benefit the Pluma Project may print the required promotional flier from www.plumaproject.org and present it to the cashier when meals are purchased.

The Pluma Project is a new online forum where female survivors of domestic violence are invited to share their stories by means of prose, poetry, and artwork. All submissions sent to plumaproject@yahoo.com will be posted to www.plumaproject.org in an effort to raise awareness about domestic violence. Submissions are free for women of all ages, and anonymous and non-English work is accepted.

For more information, visit the site or write to plumaproject@yahoo.com. For information about Track Town Pizza, call 541-284-8484.
